

November 15, 2015

To: Any Party Seeking a World-Class Non-Profit Executive

From: Bob Bilbrough

Who offers this recommendation? I am the 59 year-old COO of the world's preeminent provider of e-commerce fulfillment services to independent product marketers. In addition to 37 years of business experience, including 14 years running my own electronics manufacturing services company, I have had the honor and responsibility of serving numerous non-profit organizations, often as a member of the governing body (i.e. board of directors) including:

- Founding National Chair of the American Electronics Association (AeA) Small Business Task Force
- Past Chair of the Executive Committee of the American Electronics Association (U.S. Southeast Council)
- Chairman Emeritus of 42,000 member Delta Kappa Epsilon International Fraternity (30 years as a member of DKE's Board of Directors)
- Past Chair of the Lake Lanier Technology Alliance
- Past Chair of the Greater Hall County Chamber of Commerce Technology Steering Committee
- Past Member of Atlanta's Technology Executives Roundtable
- Past Member of Circuits Assembly Magazine Editorial Review Board
- Past Member of the Atlanta CEO High Tech Council

In each of these organizations, I have worked directly with the chief executive officer. As chair of many of these organizations, I have managed the chief executive officer.

Mike Levin is the best --- by far --- non-profit executive with whom I have ever worked. In addition to having excellent business sense, Mike possesses a rare sensitivity that enables him to build and diplomatically guide effective non-profit governing bodies. Finding and recruiting busy, successful leaders is difficult, and melding big personalities (i.e. egos) into a cohesive purpose-driven team can be impossible. Not for Mike. His experience and intuitive intellect enables him to read those he serves well, and his self-deprecating management style disarms even the most excitable egos. Mike's executive performance has always earned the respect of those he serves, his colleagues and his staff. Mike Levin is simply the best.

730 King George Boulevard, Suite B, Savannah, GA 31419
Mobile 678-910-2650